

NASA's Earth to Sky
presents

WILD!

Tuesday,
November

12

3:00 PM – 6:30 PM

Welcome to Teton Science School!

Check-in begins at the Kelly Campus of the Teton Science School at 2:00.
Opening session at 3:00.
Foundations of Climate Change at 4:15.
Dinner at 5:30. Panel to follow.

Wednesday,
November

13

8:30 AM – 4:30 PM

Field Day in Grand Teton National Park

Explore local, observable climate change impacts on wildlife with local scientist.
Learn field techniques for teaching about wildlife.
Dinner at 5:30. Optional Evening Program to follow.

Thursday,
November

14

8:30 PM – 4:30 PM

NASA Resources

Morning presentations on wildlife monitoring and management.
Resource fair highlighting successful climate education projects from the region.
Dinner at 5:30. Free time in Jackson to follow.

Friday,
November

15

8:30 AM – 12:00 PM

Applied Learning

Work on climate communication project
Presentations lead into lunch.
Departure after lunch at 12:00.

Questions?

Email bw@cityofboise.org

About us

Earth to Sky is a partnership between NASA, the National Park Service, and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service that enables and encourages educators to access and use relevant NASA science, data, and educational and outreach products in their work. The partnership's focus is on climate change science and communication.